

Conference invitation – Call for papers

The Department of Theology of the National Association of PhD Students (Hungary), follows the tradition of the previous years and organizes its 9th conference in 2019. The Conference of Junior Theologians and Doctoral Students will be organized on 1-3 March 2019 at the St. Athanasius Greek Catholic Theological College (Hungary). We would like to invite wholeheartedly all students who are members of different doctoral schools in theology or other fields if their doctoral research concerns the faith or religious studies respectively. Additionally we are waiting for the application of those master students.

The Theology Department of the National Association of Doctoral Students looks forward to the participation of doctoral students outside of the borders of Hungary, too. Continuing the tradition of previous years, we also would like to express our ecumenical commitment, therefore we encourage the doctoral students and junior researchers of all denominations to apply and participate on our conference.

In this academic year the conference will take place at the renewed building of the St. Athanasius Greek Catholic Theological College.
